In July 2016, the Harvard Business Review wrote the article, Who is to Blame for "The Great Training Robbery?" The article discussed the failures of conventional training and why most businesses never realize a ROTI (Return on Training Investment). For five years The Big Calling researched better training methods and practices that would flip this trend. Our scientifically validated techniques will dramatically enhance the application rate of our business success programs. Our programs cover every critical area in the business process.
